LETTER FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

ON BOARD STEAMER "SERATA") · NEAR ARICA, CHILI, MAY 17, 1874. DEAR T-

By looking at the map, you can see about where I'm spending this Sunday, 36 days from home and not a word from the U. S. How I should like to be in Bloomfield today, instead of being cooped up in this vessel, and for another week before arriving at Valparaiso. To give you a full description of my trip would be a long story, although my personal adventures have been few, especially as I'm on business, and business alone. Still if you will worry through it, I against the rain, and last year, when they will try to give you an idea of this councry and its people, as far as I have seen them.

we arrived in Kingston, Jamaica, on the 17th, late at night. Our steamer, the "Acapulco" averaged, with fair wind, about ten miles an hour. Taking a carriage the following morning early we drove all over Kingston and to a sugar plantation, about four miles out of the city. Jamaica has been in posly 11,000 whites, speak English. The city of Kingston looks as dilapidated as it possibly can look. The entrance to the harbor is defended by an old tumble-down fort, mounting about 25 guns, which could be knocked over in about 20 minutes by our modern artillery. The docks and piers, three in number, made of wooden piles, answer very well the purpose, but look too shaky to stand much. The city is well laid ont, regular wide streets, and well paved. Situated as it is in the tropics, of course all the tropical fruit imaginable can be had for nothing almost. The business is monopolized by English Jews, who live on their estates near the city and have their stores in the city. Being Saturday, the stores, at least the principal ones, were closed, but the roads leading into the city were crowded with negro women carrying produce to market. The same old complaint can be heard here, and that is, that since the abolition of slavery the Island has not amounted to anything, as the negroes won't work. The market in the city is a fine building. From Kingston we ran to Aspinwall in two days, where we arrived on the 20th. A great many passengers had been seasick all the way from New York, as it had been very rough, but I escaped altogether. Aspinwall is a sickly, disgusting looking place. It consists of two or threestory frame houses inhabited by a mixed lot steamers established for that purpose in of negroes and indians. The center of the town is taken up by a lot of bottles, (empty that stop at every port regularly as clockof course) scattered all around the edges of work. To-morrow we shall stop at a port large pools of water, stagnant and filthy. On the outskirts of the town are the machine shops, boarding and lodging houses, a few private dwellings, and a fine brown stone church, all belonging to the Panama Rail-Bloomfield Record. church, all belonging to the Panama Railroad Co. Left Aspinwall at 7 a. m. on the 21st and arrived in Panama at 10,30. The scenery did not amount to much. Panama looks even worse than Kingston, especially as the fire on the 29th of February destroyed the principal buildings facing the Plaza or public square. The whole city looks as old as it is, 300 years, the houses, apparently, having seen'few repairs. Nearly all of them show the marks of the last revolutions (two or three within the last two years,) by thousand dollars, by the congress of the bullet and cannon ball marks. I found a United States, for the purpose of improving stopping place some distance from the center of the town, in a kind of country house, remaining three days. I met some old army friends and had a pleasant time considering everything.

From Panama I left for Callao, Peru, on the finest steamer on this coast, called the Oroya, commanded by an American, Capt. Hall, a gentlemen in every respect and a splendid sailor, who stands first among the officers of the English company which monopolizes the whole trade on the west side of South America, with a magnificent fleet of 72 fine steamers.

in our seven day's trip, at Payta, Peru. We were told before going on shore that to injure a tree or tread upon the grass would be to incur a fine of $25. And I saw the joke; there was not a blade of grass to be seen on the whole coast, nor a tree, except a few painted blue on the country wall. The Cordilleras stretch along the shores of the Pacific, sometimes up to the water's edge, An act relative to the attendance of children sometimes retreating ten, twenty or forty miles, one range towering higher than othe other, without a vestige of vegetation of any kind-bare and bleak.

Arrived at Callao on the 1st of May, took train and arrived in Lima, the capital of Peru, only seven or eight miles distant, year, six weeks at least of which attendance about 5 o'clock. The following day was shall be consecutive; or to be instructed at the grand feast day of Peru, celebrating the home at least twelve weeks in each vear, in repulse of the Spanish fleet at Callao, May 2, 1866. Saw a grand review of 3,000 troops mental condition of the child is such as to and visited a bull-fight where eight bulls render such attendance inexpedient or imwere killed, agveraging twelve minutes practicable, and for every neglect of such cach. The following day I visited the Exnibition Grounds and buildings, which are district in which such child resides, splendid, having cost $3,000,000. The gar- a sum not exceeding twenty dollars. dens are equal to anything that I have seen, to be recovered in any court of comfilled with shrubbery and trees of the differ- petent jurisdiction in the county in ent countries in the world, and growing in district may be situated; provided however, the open air. The most curious thing that that the aforesaid penalty shall be satis-I observed was that the weather was so cool factorily proven, upon the trial of the case, and pleasant, although ten degrees from the equator. My summer clothing might have erty, to comply with the requirements of this been left at home, as I had to wear my win- act. ter clothing all the time, and am still wearing it, as it is getting colder the further take effect immediately. south we are going. In the Exhibition Gardens is a Menagerie equal to the one in Central Park, also lakes with boats, immense turtles, sea lions, fountains, grottos.

The following night I had a taste of an earthquake, strong enough to throw people ont of their beds, but not me as I must have been very tired and did not remember much of it the following morning. It never rains here, but a river which runs past the city irrigates the gardens and supplies all the water needed. There are a great fany English and Americans in Lima, employed by Henry Meiggs, the R. R. King of to any person or persons, party or parties, Peru. The houses are only covered by mud or earth, which of course is no protection had the first rainsform for generations, a York bay," approved March thirteenth, one million dollars worth of furniture was des- thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, or by

The was a good enough freight steamer, and first one, at Molliendo, is the worst harbor claiming through and under them, or either on the coast of South America, but the termi- of them, shall be entitled to compensation nus of a railroad. Molliendo has a fine depot, good enough for any city in the U. S., and is the outlet for a rich country.

Twelve hours after leaving Molliendo, we reached Arica, a good harbor. The place is celebrated on account of the fearful earth. quake and tidal wave, which destroyed it this act shall take effect immediately. and 300 people in August_1868. An American man-of-war, the "Wateree" now lies mile inland, where she was thrown by the tidal wave. She is of course dismantled, but being of iron, her hull stands as erect and sound as if she was put there on purpose only a day or two before. I walked three miles to see her. There were no lives lost in her, but a Peruvian - man-of-war fared worse, losing nearly all of her crew and breaking into several pieces. Arica is being rebuilt very fast. It is the outlet of a rich agricultural and mining country. We took about 160,000 lbs. of tin, 40,000 lbs. silver bars, put up in cowhide packages, 15,000 lbs. silver ore, a lot of copper, about 12,000 lbs. Peruvian bark, 4,000 bales alpaca wool, and a lot of mixed cargo. This will give you an idea of the business done here. All goes to England direct by a line of connection with a line of coasting steamers called Autofogasta and take about $250,000 WASHINGTON AVE. in silver, and so on down the coast.
